To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to recommend Barron Ryan as a speaker for your organization.

From start to finish, working with Barron was an absolute joy! His communication prior to the event was clear and timely, and his presentation was amazing! He has a unique way of making his outstanding classical talents exciting and relevant to audiences of all ages.

For our event, he presented to high school students grades 9-12. It can sometimes be hard to impress teenagers and hold their attention, and Barron did both. His piano skills and overall creativity were mesmerizing, and our students were hanging on every word he said. His message and story were strong and inspirational. And there was a genuineness and humility about him that made him even more likable. He so beautifully tells of his own struggles and how they served to make him stronger and propel him forward. That transparency was so refreshing and such a good example for our kids who live in a world where they are afraid to fail.

In addition, Barron was respectful and sensitive to the needs of our demographic, which made for such an enjoyable and valuable experience. When the program was over, students called for an encore, and when that was over, chanted "One more song! One more song!" I think they would've stayed listening to him for hours if we had let them! Barron Ryan truly left an impact in the brief time he was here. In fact, I already told him that I'd love to have him back next year!

Book Barron Ryan for your organization's upcoming event. You won't regret it! His new, fresh thinking is contagious, and the way he delivers his message will be unlike anything your organization has ever experienced before.

Jena Snyder
